

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An oxygen-removing pre-process for copper interconnect grown by electrochemical displacement deposition is to remove the oxygen in the reaction solution before displacement and deposition a 5 copper film/conducting wire such that the copper film/conducting wire is grown and has a lower electric resistance.